Chairman's Budget News

On December 10th the governor's budget secretary held the annual mid-year budget briefing. The mid-year briefing is supposed to be an opportunity for the executive branch of state government to communicate to the legislative branch concerns about the state's fiscal health as we head into the second half of the fiscal year. Unfortunately, this briefing fell short and left many unanswered questions. Probably the biggest unanswered question was about the need for supplemental appropriations in the 2019-20 General Fund budget.

Act 15 of 2019 requires the governor to submit to the Appropriations Committees a written request detailing the amount of potential supplemental appropriations and the reason for the supplemental appropriations. On October 31st the House received a list of "possible" supplemental requests totaling up to $779 million for the 2019-20 General Fund budget. The House did not receive the required written reasoning for the requested supplementals. The Appropriations Committee has requested more details on these "possible" supplementals and to date we have received no additional information. During the IFO's five-year outlook in November, a staff member from the governor's office of the budget stated that the $779 million wasn't an actual request. However, in the mid-year briefing the power point presentation showed the administration still carrying a supplemental request of $779 million and they predicted the Commonwealth would end the current fiscal year with a $257.8 million deficit.

The governor needs to take a couple of steps to clarify this confusion. First, he needs to fully comply with Act 15 and provide written reasoning for each supplemental request by line-item. Second, if he believes that there is going to be such a large supplemental need, he needs to immediately work with his agency heads to reduce spending and he needs to freeze some spending by putting items in budgetary reserve. Budgets that are passed by the General Assembly cannot be treated as guidelines for the executive agencies.
